Endowment

“Look for the good in life! I established this endowment because when I ‘look for the good in life,’ our college exemplifies it. The people who work at Lake Region State College, many of whom I call friends, support each other, support their students, and have a huge presence in our area. These hard-working people are a vital part of the community I call home.

“I wanted to give something to LRSC students, as they are amazing people. They come from all walks of life and locations around the globe with the common goal of working towards a better life for themselves, their families, and the communities in which they will live.

“I chose to direct my endowment’s support to the Fitness Trainer Technician program because this was my first professional passion in life and because there is much joy in helping people find the path to better health.

“I encourage everyone to always look for the good in life, work hard, stay humble, and give as much of yourself to the betterment of the world as you can.”
