

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

60 credit AAS | 30 credit Certificate

THE PROGRAM

The Early Childhood Education program is an Associate in Applied Science (AAS) degree or can be completed in one year with our certificate program. The program teaches students the importance of human growth and development and child behaviors and how it affects their ages and stages of development. Students develop healthy communication skills necessary to positive relationships with children and parents. Early childhood educators are needed in a variety of settings, including:

- Childcare facilities
- Recreation centers
- Pre-K schools & programs (Head Start)
- Private home childcare
- Other children's institutions

A TRANSFER-FRIENDLY SYSTEM

Most universities across the country are considered “transfer-friendly” especially within the North Dakota University System (NDUS):

- AA degrees are commonly accepted in place of specific first and second year core requirements.
- GER - All first and second year (100 & 200 level) general education requirements have common names and numbers throughout the NDUS.

Knowledgeable advisors will help you create a class schedule and choose electives to build strong foundations for upper division coursework and to meet transfer requirements.
