College costs were a factor for Dustyn Nelsen, an LRSC sophomore majoring in accounting. With plans to live and work in North Dakota, colleges close to home also were important in the selection process. That’s when a Presidential Scholarship offer from Lake Region State College sealed the deal.

“Receiving that honor impacted my choice to attend Lake Region State College.” Scholarships not only assist with the cost of college. For students, the honor of receiving a scholarship impacts their confidence that can propel into further achievements. Dustyn stepped up and became active in student life soon after arriving on campus. He joined Student Senate and now serves as its president.

“I liked Student Senate right away. There are multiple opportunities at LRSC for students to be involved. At a larger campus I don’t know if I would have been confident to run for President, but there is so much support for students here to take those chances.”

Student support is another factor that makes LRSC shine. Dustyn said the faculty and staff interaction with students is outstanding. “If you have questions, whether with a class or student life in general, there is someone right there to help,” he said.

The Egeland, ND, native plans to transfer to a North Dakota university to pursue his bachelor’s degree after graduating from LRSC.

“I want to stay in North Dakota and establish myself in a smaller, rural community so I can enjoy the outdoors whenever,” Dustyn said.
